

Guesthouse in Africa

A Guesthouse in Sierra Leone

On the coast of Africa, far from noise and big cities, you find a small hotel. The hotel, peacefully situated by a little lagoon, is designed as an interim home for visitors who during their stay are brought close to Africa and the nature of the coast.

Along dusty gravel roads you arrive at the hotel by the sea.

On arrival you step into a high-ceilinged Hall with a view to the sea and a luxuriant atrium. You are ushered to your room on either the ground floor or 1st floor. Via the elegantly sweeping staircase you proceed along a gallery to your room that opens to the sea with large door sections and to the half-open cool atrium.

After arrival and acclimatisation you go via the gallery on to the terrace from where you inspect the beach of the little lagoon and in the far towards the horizon you observe the ocean - now you have arrived at Sussex!

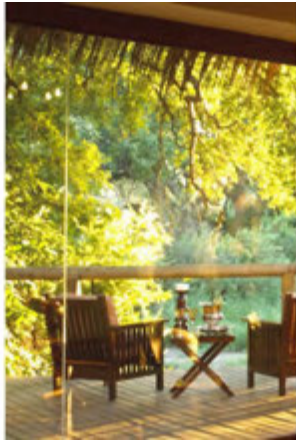

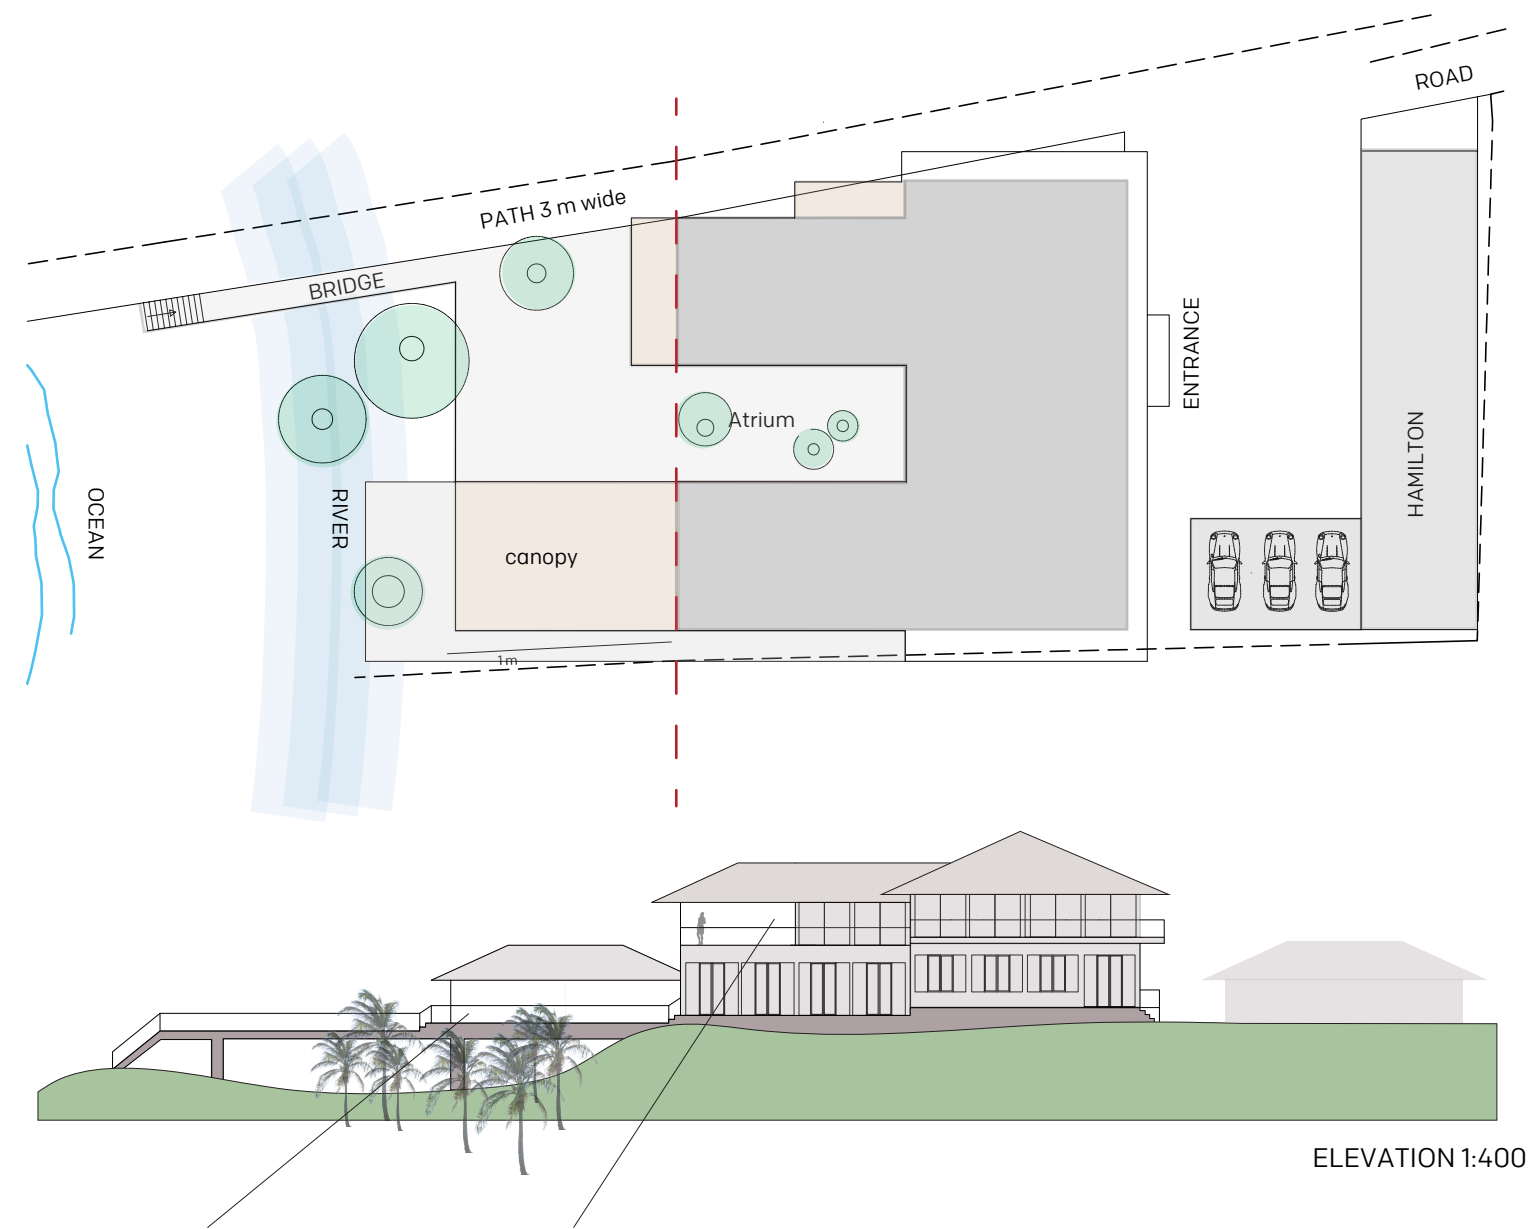

When having ingested the fresh sea breeze and enjoyed the view from the terrace you return to the drawing room where you can read the papers, check your mail or simply enjoy the silence. At eight p.m. you are called to the dining room and the hotel guests are having their supper menu to the sounds of the African nature.

After supper you drift on to the roofed terrace where you relax to the sounds of waves and wind whispering in the palm trees. A stroll along the beach completes the day before you retire to your room and fall asleep to the cool vawe of the curtains in the balcony doors.

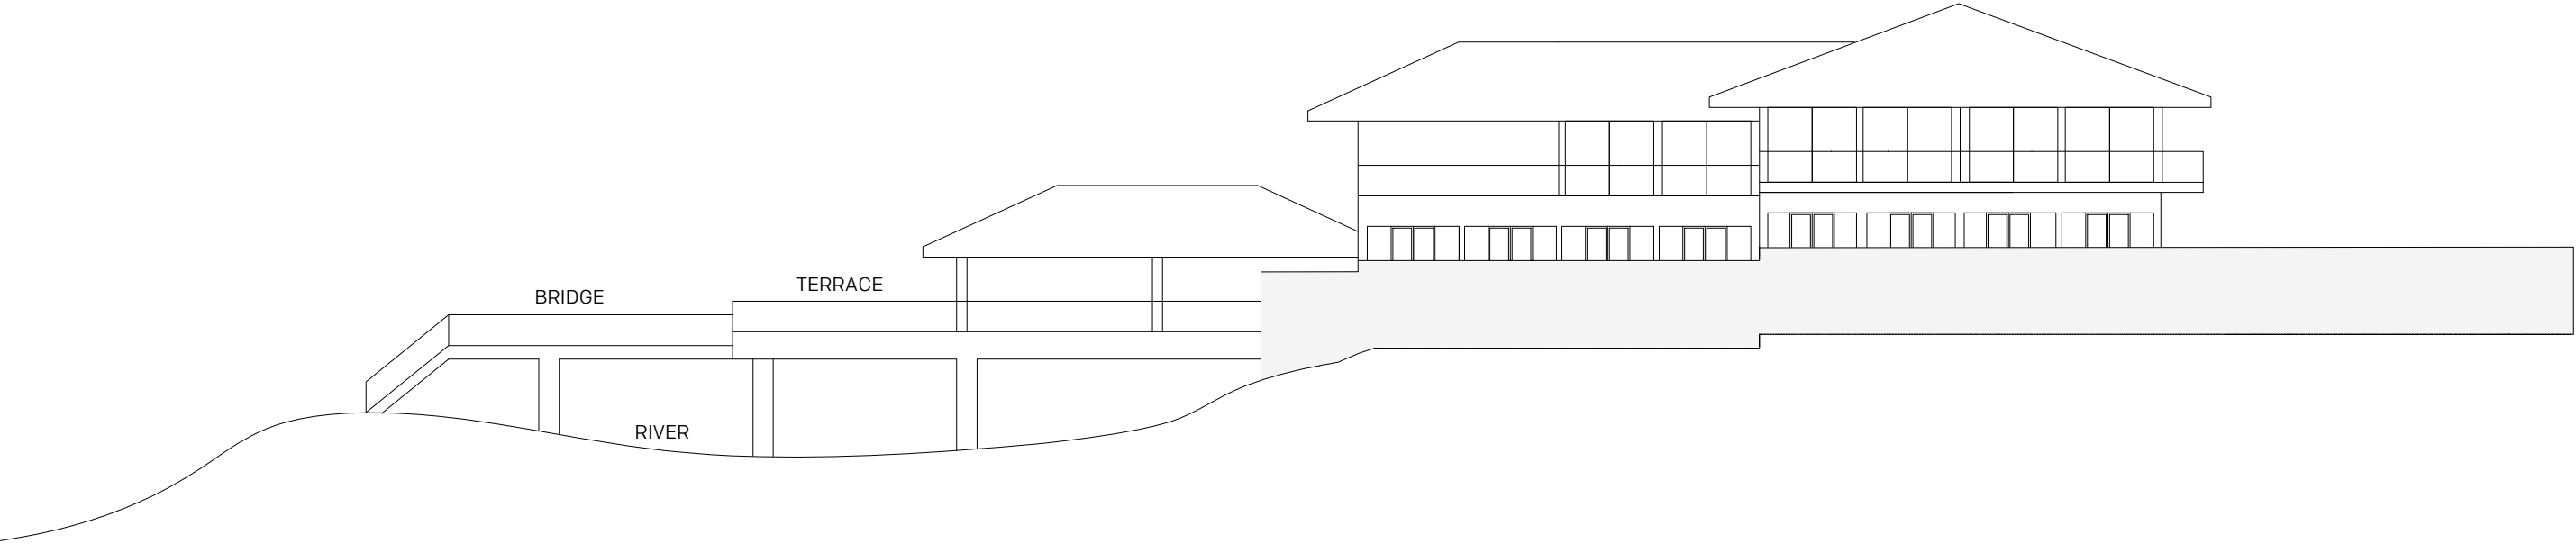

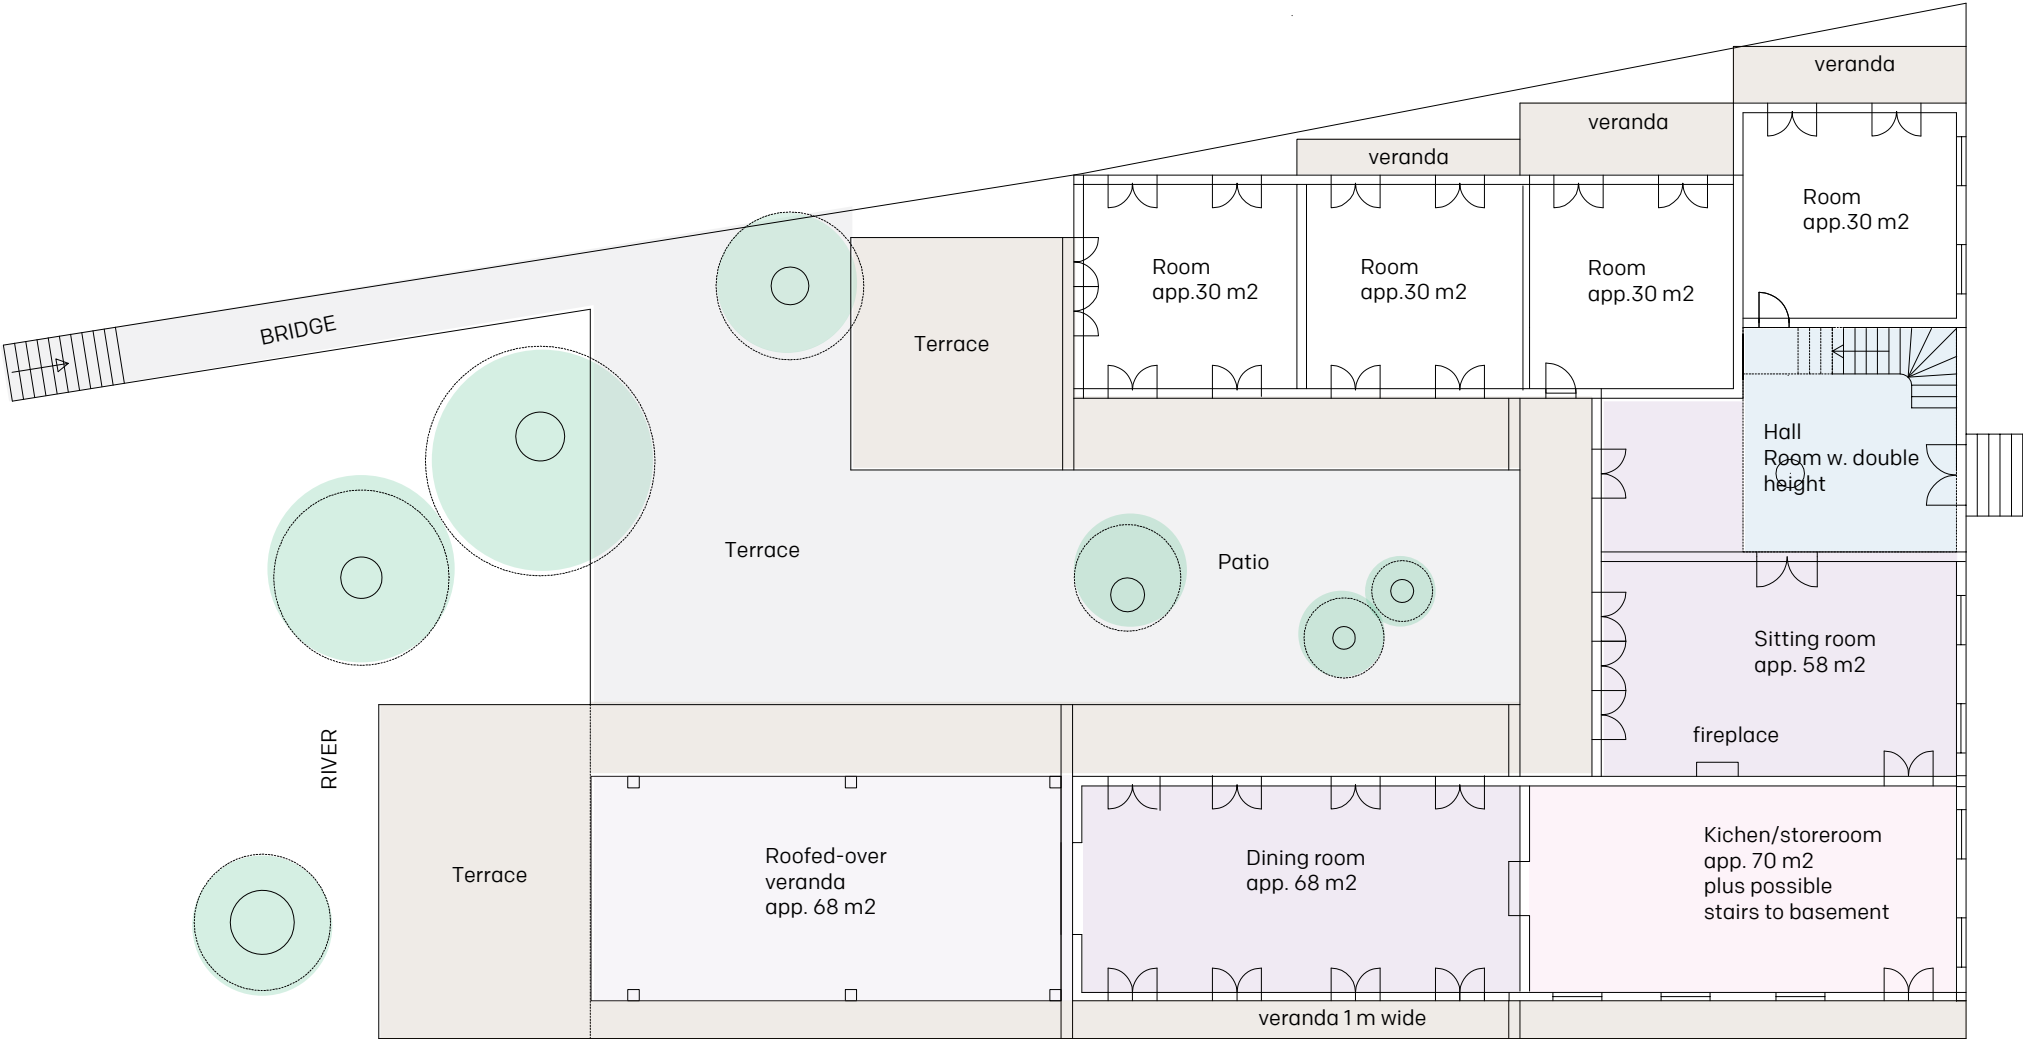

Welcome to Africa!

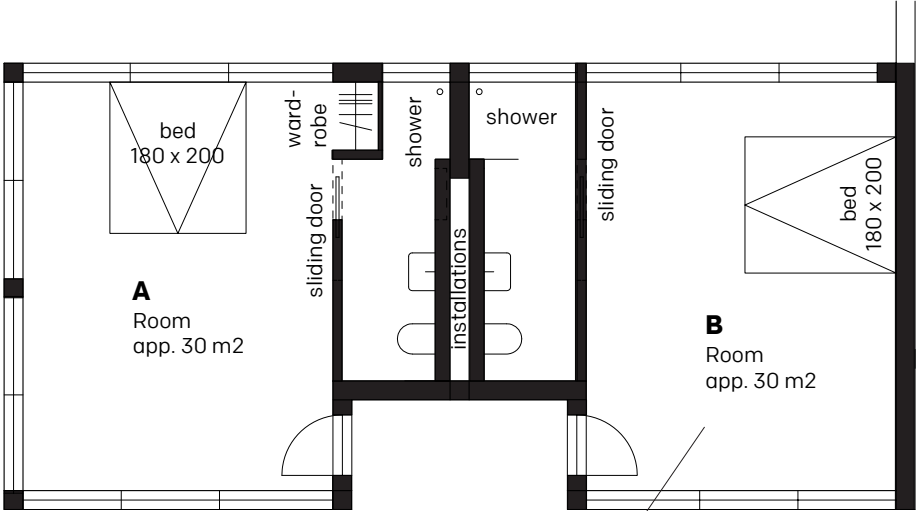

SITE PLAN 1:400

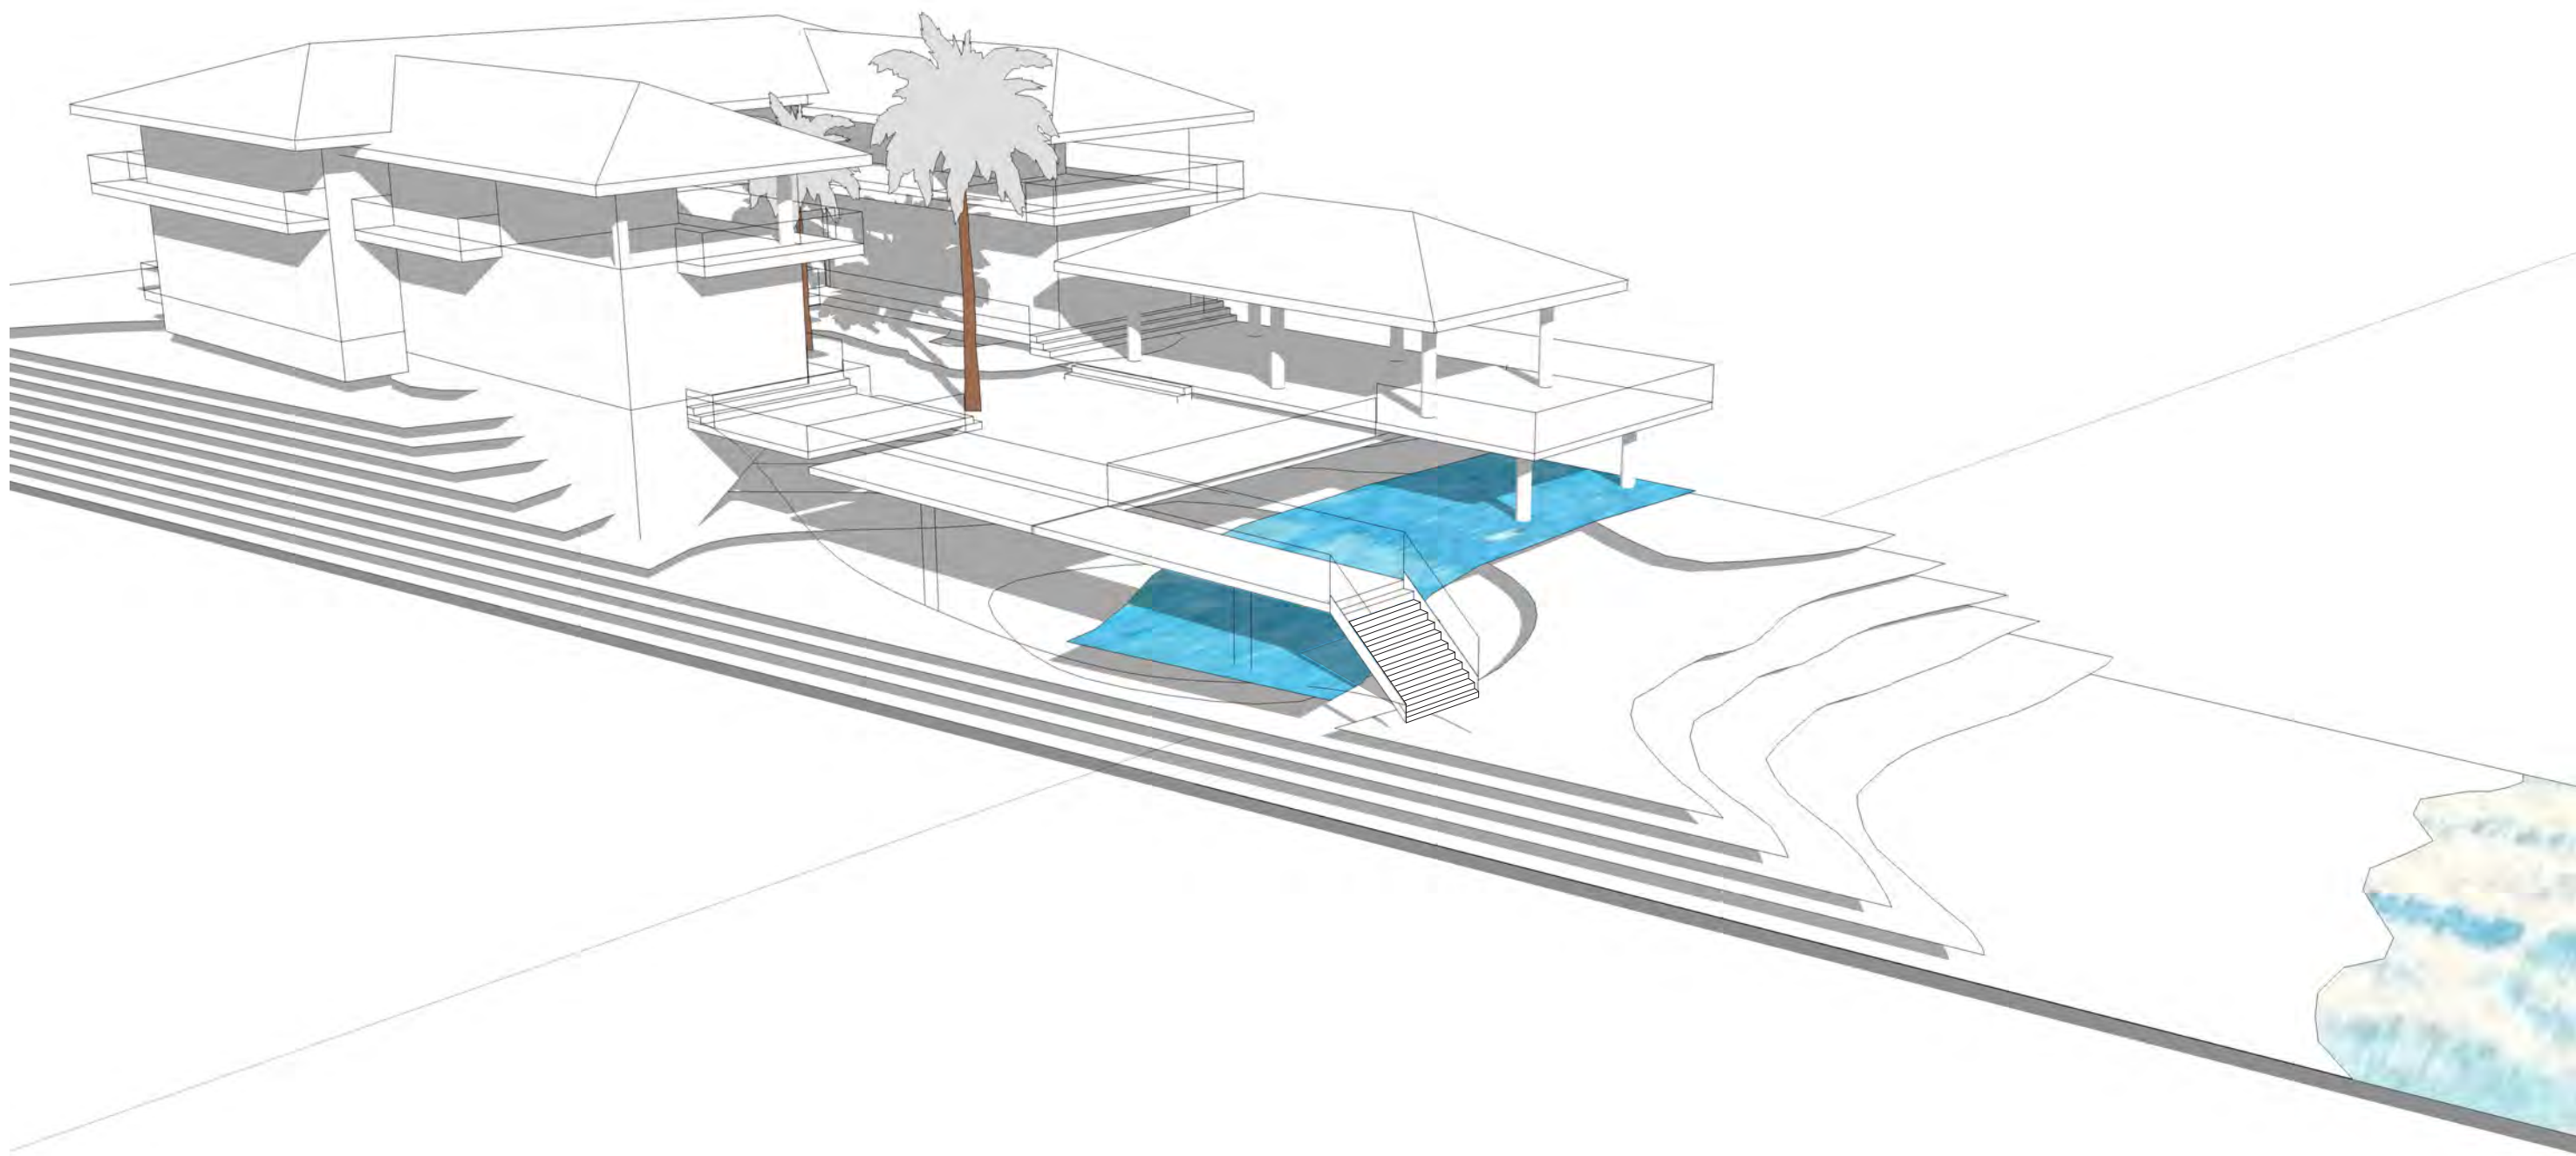

GROUND FLOOR 1:200

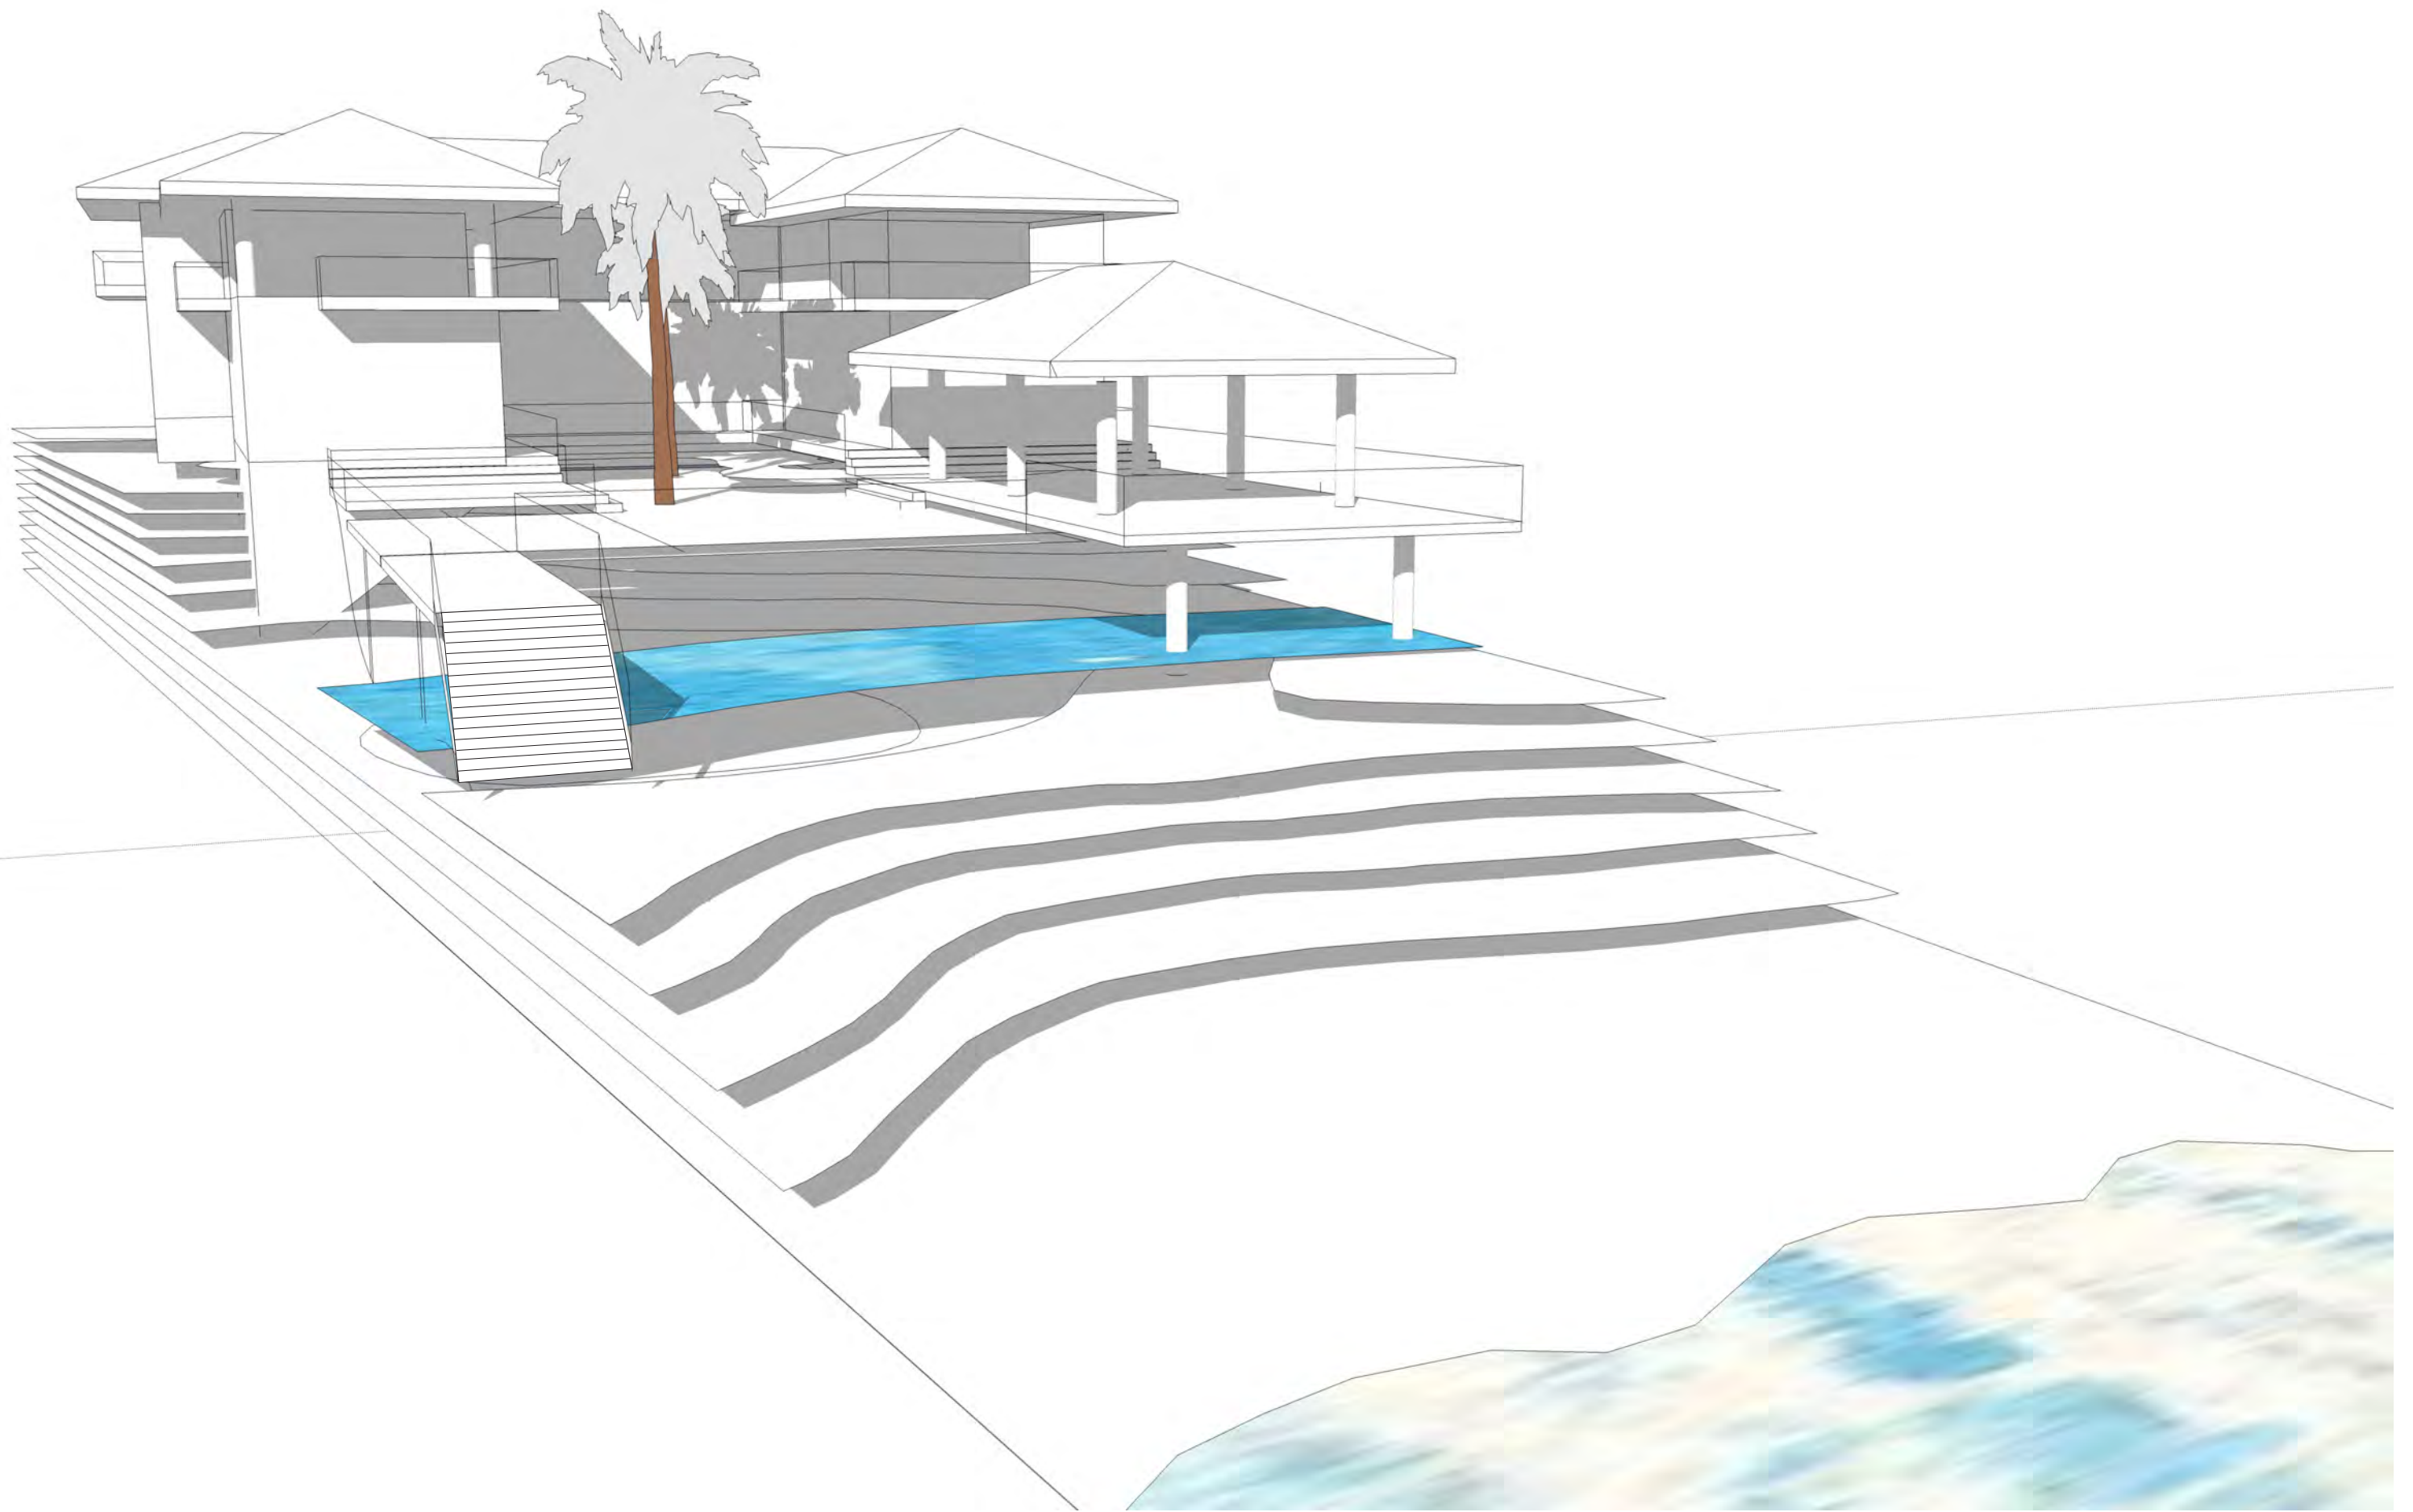

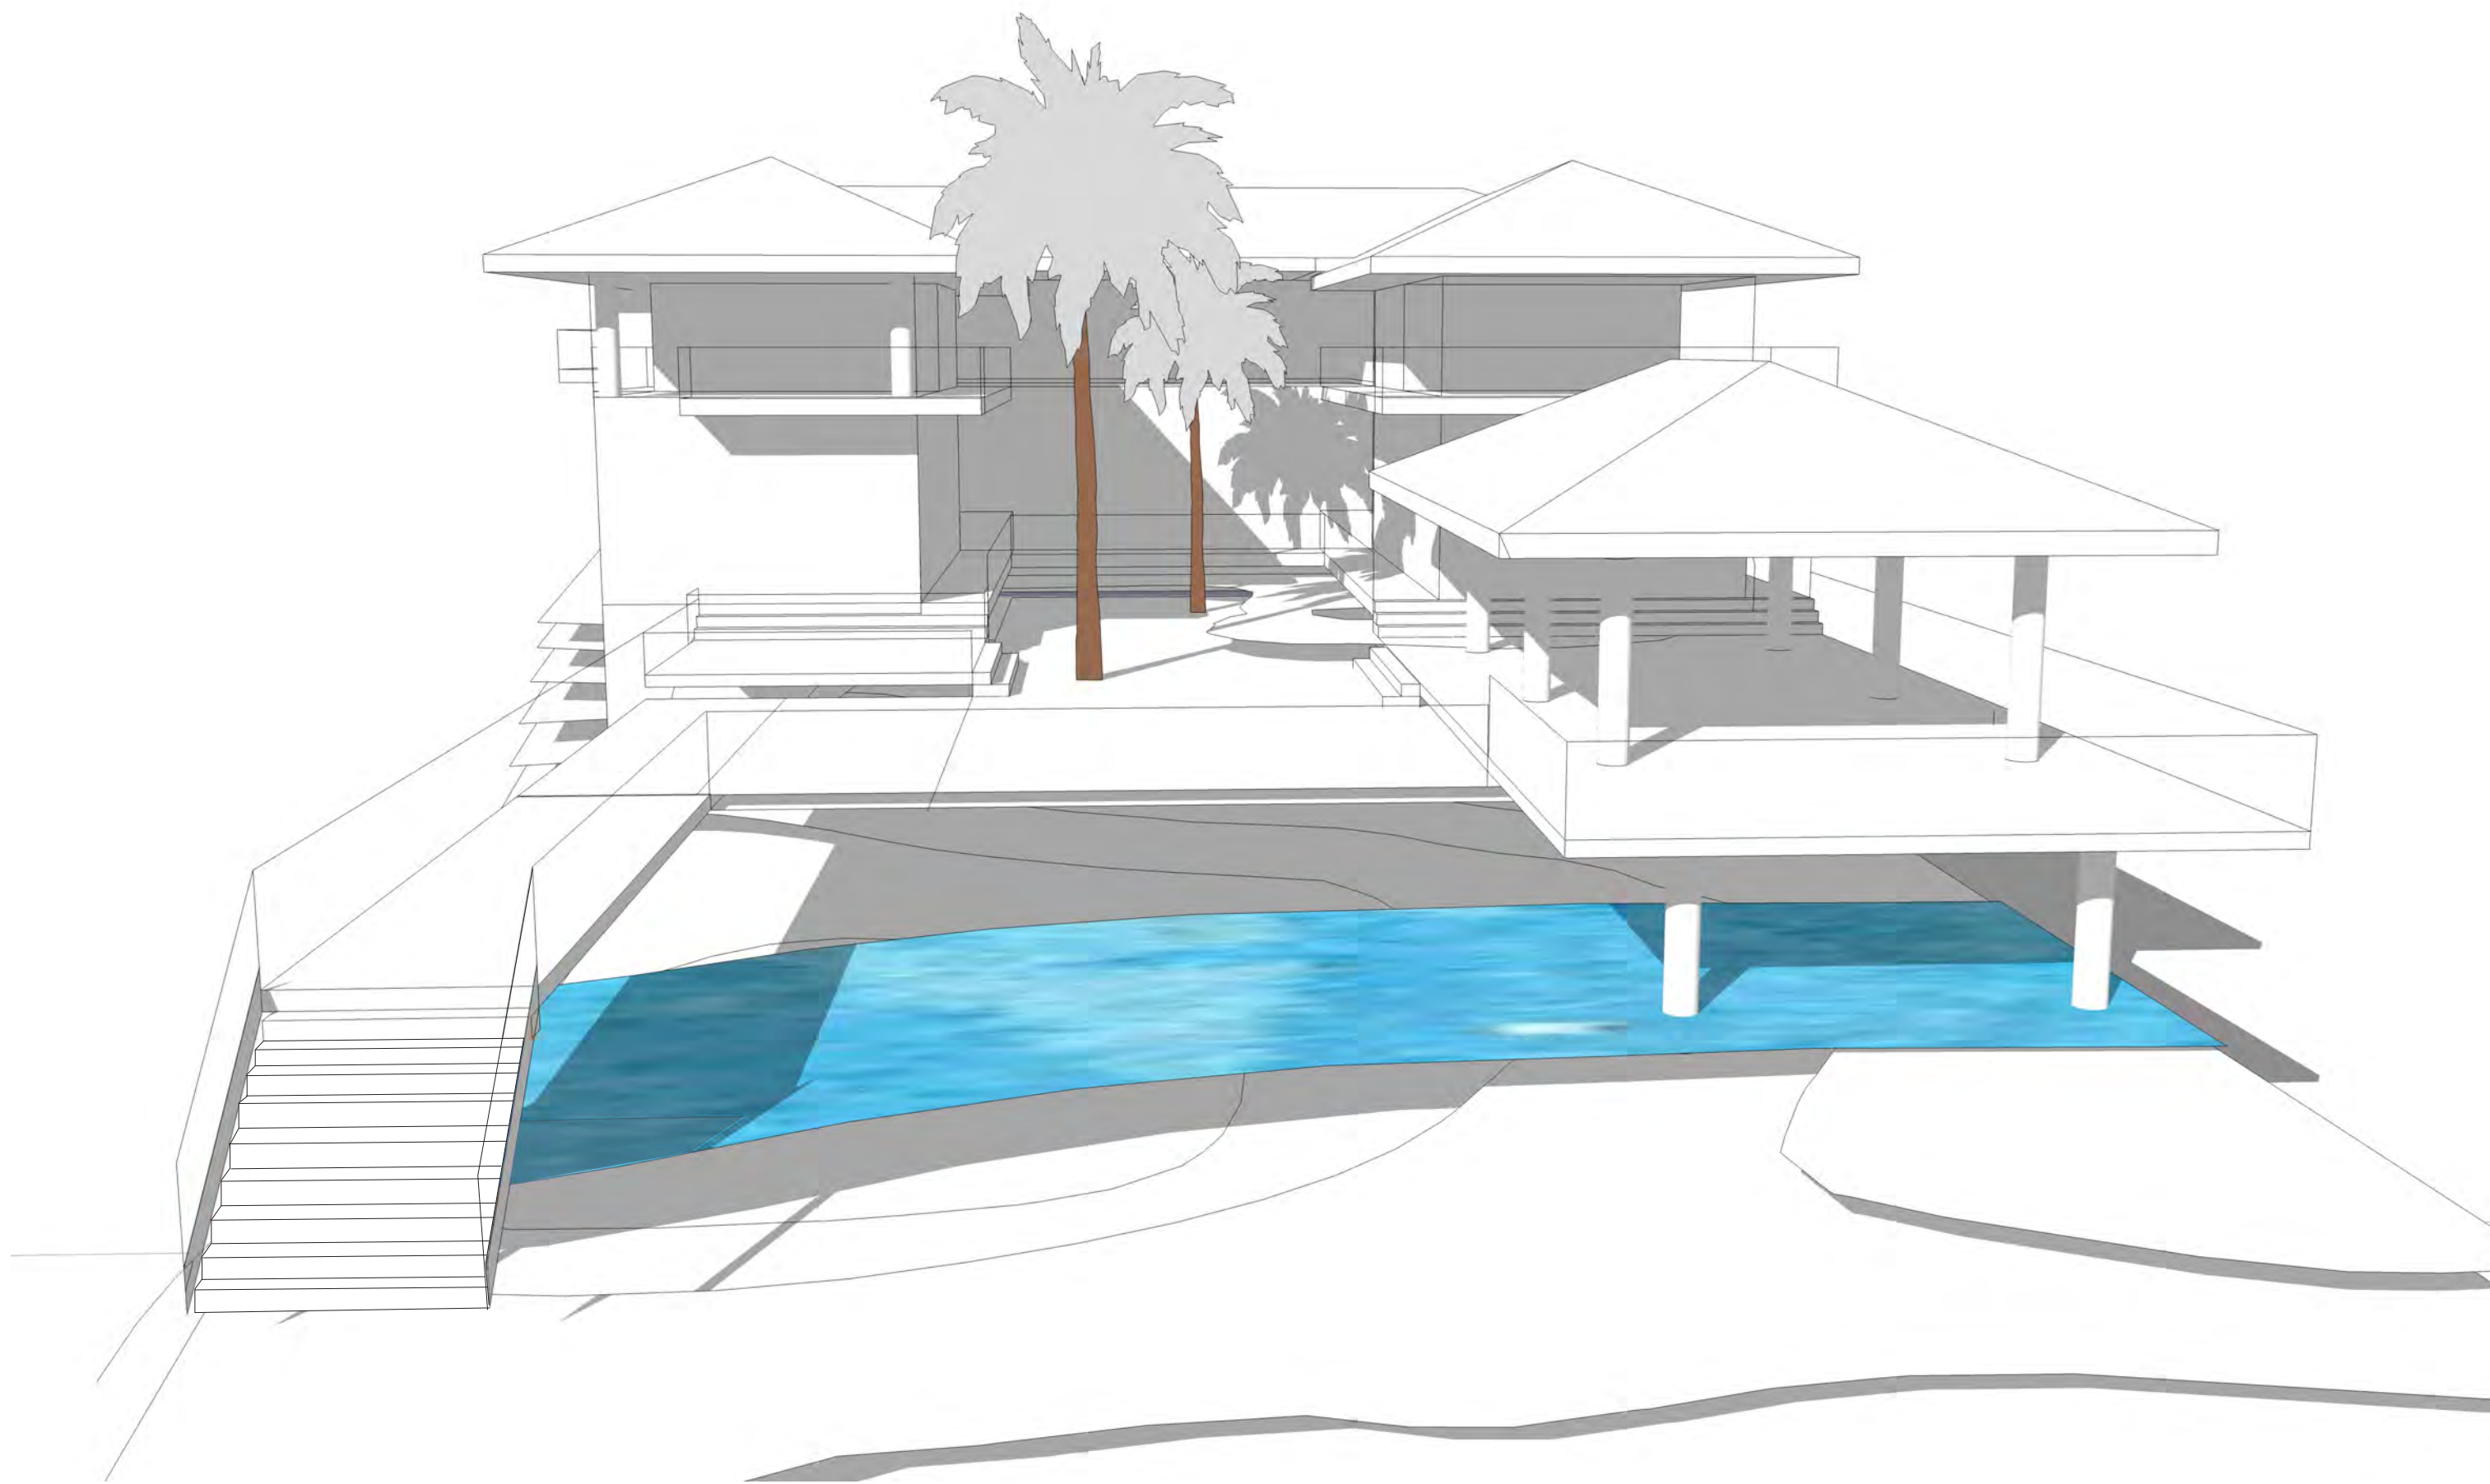

Examples of plan segments 1:100

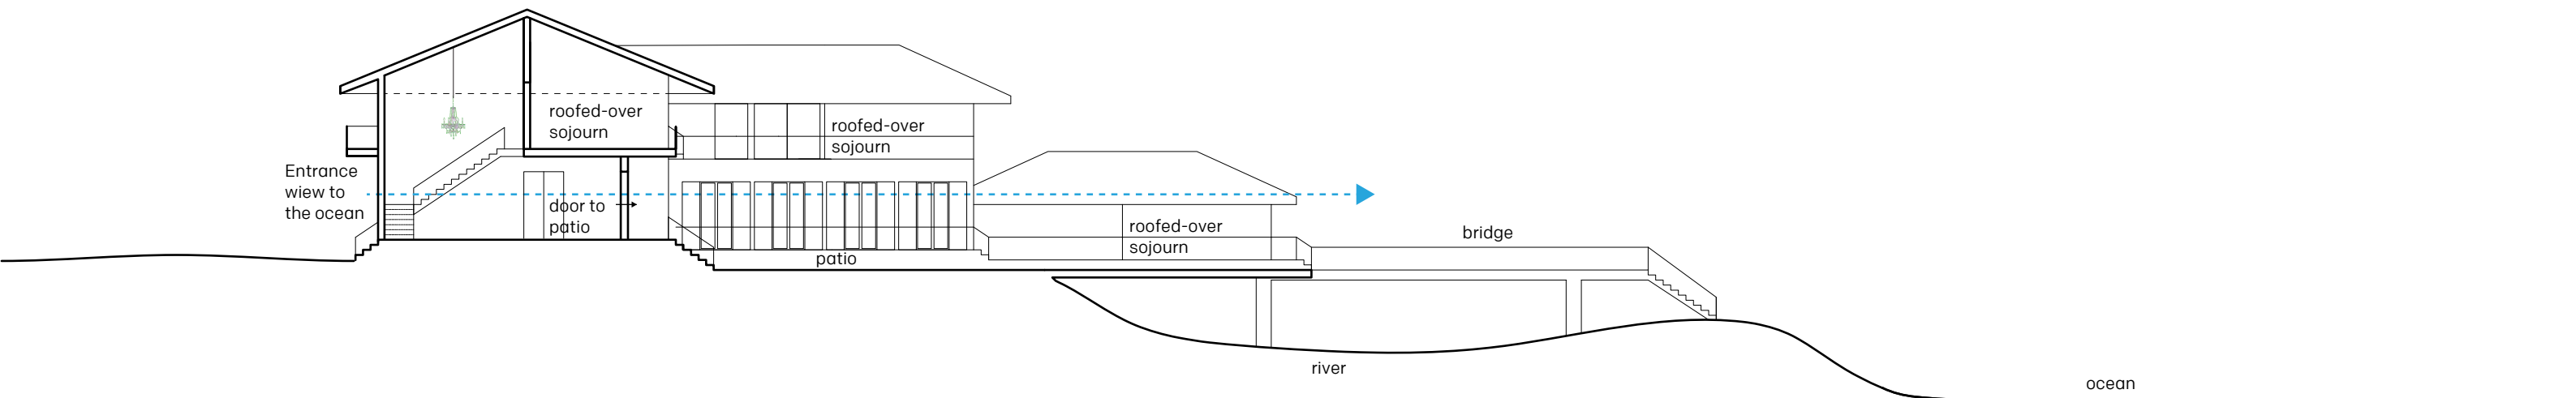

VISUALISATION
Face towards patio

VISUALISATION
Face seen from the ocean

MOOD PICTURES

ROOFED-OVER TERRACE

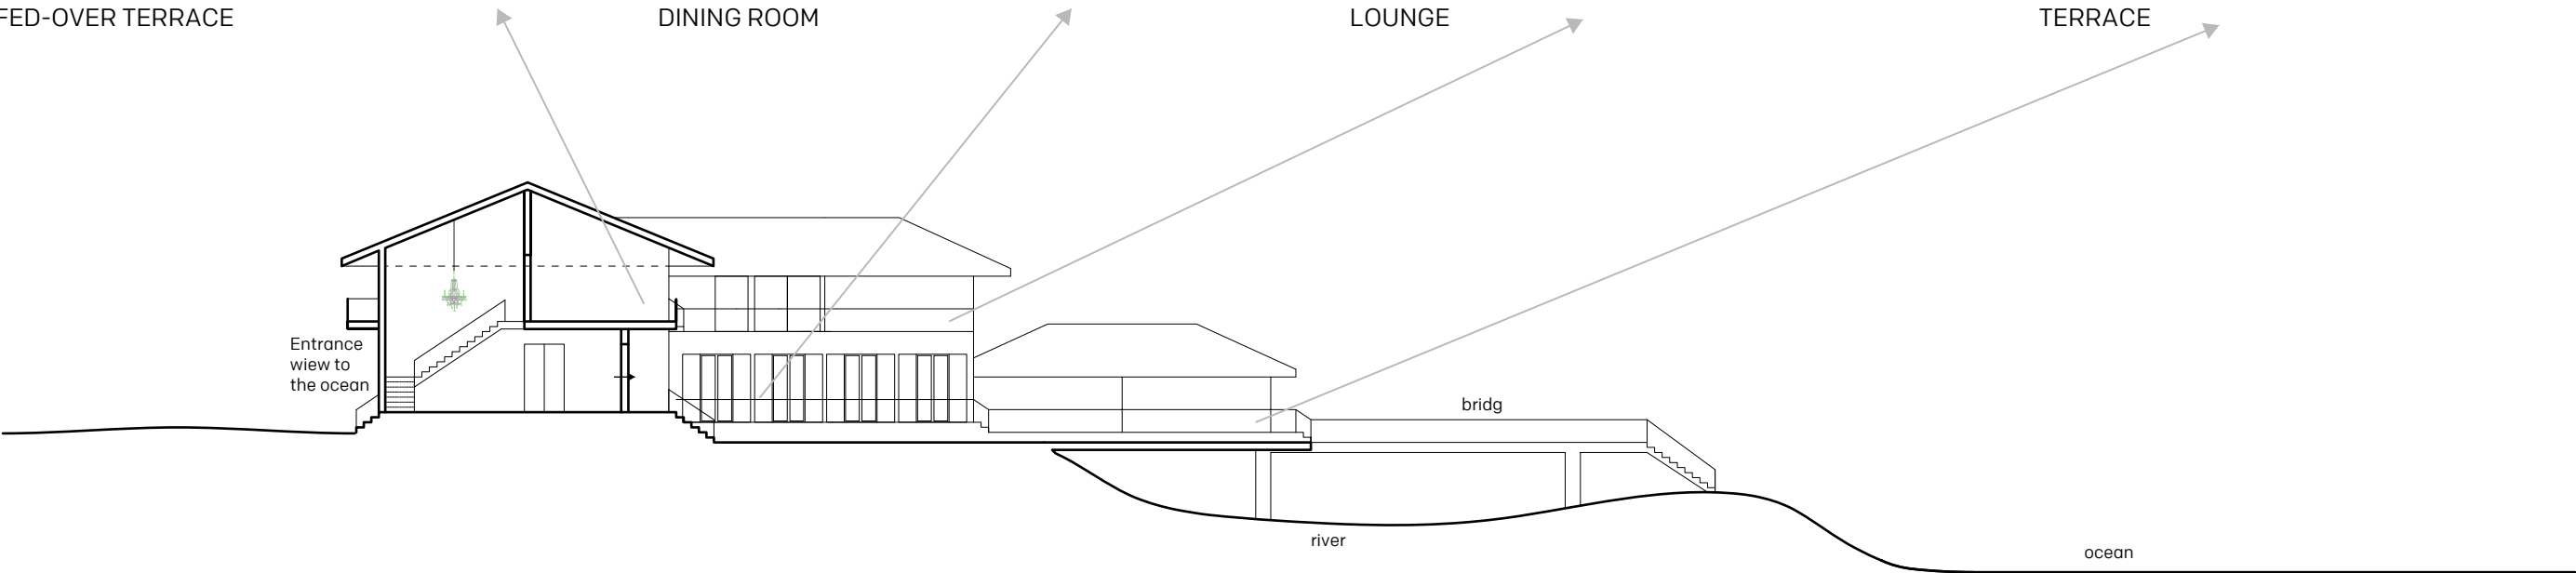

DINING ROOM

LOUNGE

TERRACE

DRAWING ROOM

ROOM 1st FLOOR

ROOM GROUND FLOOR

MATERIALS

ROOF

FACADE lower part

MATERIALS

FACADE upper part

FLOOR

